More than three quarters of a million people are internally displaced, having fled violence by armed extremists. Between November 2019 and February 2020 alone, 300,000 people left their homes. The majority of these IDPs live with host families. Food is increasingly scarce. Access to health services is poor. More than 1,000 schools remain closed and more than 246,000 children are without access to education.
